

MADHU

Madhu is a talented sculpture artist from Koyambram, Kasargod whose life journey stands as an inspiration to many.

ABOUT THE ARTIST & HIS JOURNEY

Affected by polio during childhood, Madhu lost the movement of both his legs and also experiences weakness in his left hand. Despite these physical challenges, he never allowed disability to stop him from pursuing his passion for art and sculpture.

With determination and self-confidence, Madhu built an independent life through sculpture, mural art, and traditional temple artwork. Working from his workshop in Koyambram, he creates beautiful temple sculptures, wooden artworks, idols of deities, and mural paintings.

One of the most remarkable aspects of his work is the way he handles high-altitude jobs. Since his legs are non-functional, he uses the strength of his arms to climb ladders while holding paint bottles in his mouth to complete intricate sculptures and painting works.

People admire his courage, dedication, and craftsmanship. Madhu believes that art gives him strength and helps him forget his physical limitations while working.

INSPIRATION AND MESSAGE

Madhu is admired not only for his artistic talent but also for his courage and positive mindset. He does not seek sympathy from society; instead, he wishes to be recognized for his skills and dedication as an artist.

His journey inspires many people by showing that physical limitations cannot stop someone with determination and self-belief. Through his life and work, Madhu continues to prove that passion, perseverance, and hard work are stronger than disability.
